SUMMARY

Devoted coder, teacher, and candy-lover, I am a highly motivated life long learner striving to help others through knowledge and compassion. Having taught special education in a variety of settings, I believe communication holds together the framework of any successful partnership. The same is true in programming, regardless of the language, with support, guidance, and communication I am a capable developer with a creative touch. Merging my love for learning, teaching and technology, the possibilities are endless!
